Career prospects

Career prospects include the civil service, diplomacy, regional organisations such as the Union for the Mediterranean and the European Union, international organisations such as NATO and the United Nations, journalism, public opinion and market research, non-governmental organisations and charities, teaching, academic research, business, tourism and international trade.

'I chose EUROSUD because of its multi-disciplinary approach: our courses combine politics, international relations, history, sociology, anthropology and modern languages. The programme was the perfect choice for me.'

Vukan Jokic, New Zealand

Entry requirements

You should have a 2.1 Honours degree or non-UK equivalent in any subject. An interest in politics, international affairs, geography, history, classics, law, languages, economics, sociology, anthropology, psychology, cultural and media studies would be beneficial.

How to apply and for more information

For enquiries please contact
EUROSUD@glasgow.ac.uk

EUROSUD
International Master in South European Studies

ERASMUS MUNDUS INTERNATIONAL MASTER
SOUTH EUROPEAN STUDIES

EUROSUD
International Master in South European Studies

University of Glasgow

HELLENIC REPUBLIC
National and Kapodistrian
University of Athens
EST. 1837

LUISS

UAM
Universidad Autónoma
de Madrid

Aix*Marseille
université initiative d'excellence

ICS
INSTITUTO DE CIÊNCIAS SOCIAIS

With the support of the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union

eurosuderasmus

Design: cactushq.com

ERASMUS MUNDUS INTERNATIONAL MASTER
SOUTH EUROPEAN STUDIES
24 MONTHS

This two-year International Masters combines the complementary and interdisciplinary expertise, resources and networks of six leading universities (The Consortium):

- University of Glasgow
- Universidad Autónoma de Madrid
- Aix-Marseille Université
- National and Kapodistrian University of Athens
- LUISS Guido Carli Rome
- Instituto de Ciências Sociais da Universidade de Lisboa

Southern Europe is a distinct region with its own identity that finds itself at the cutting edge of key global challenges. South European Studies offers the stimulating experience of studying and training in three different South European countries and provides the opportunity to gain advanced language, research and professional skills.

glasgow.ac.uk/pg/southeuropeanstudies

What will I get from this programme?

You will study themes including democracy and protest, migration, social and economic change, nationalism, European integration and the new trade and security challenges that are reshaping the region.

You will attend guest lectures and seminars delivered by scholars and policy practitioners who are leading experts in their field. You will also take part in an innovative summer school in Lisbon, Portugal which will offer dissertation training as well as the chance to spend time with your fellow students and the programme supervisory teams.

The degree is flexible and you will get the choice to embark on a research or a professional track. The research track leads to a dissertation while the professional track leads to a substantial work placement and a professional project.

Programme structure

- The programme is taught over 24 months and includes three mobility periods. In semester 1 you gain an overview of the subject in Glasgow, followed by a choice of mobility partner in semester 2 (Athens or Madrid). Semester 2 includes an online research and training course. A summer school featuring dissertation/project workshops and meetings with the supervisory teams will be held at the end of semester 2 in Lisbon.
- In semester 3 you will have the choice of four thematic pathways along the research track in Athens, Madrid, Aix-en-Provence or Rome. Alternatively, you may follow a professional track that includes a lengthy work placement available in Madrid or Aix-en-Provence. You will spend semester 4 with the same semester 3 mobility partner researching and writing your dissertation or professional project under the guidance of a supervisory team made up of members of staff from each of your chosen mobility partners. If on the professional track you will also undertake a substantial work placement in semester 4. Please note semesters 3 and 4 cannot be spent with the same partner as semester 2.
- Teaching will be via lectures and small group seminars utilising a wealth of theoretical and methodological approaches drawn from the humanities and social sciences. Assignments and coursework include individual and group presentations, structured debates, simulation exercises and role play, reflective logs, fieldwork and study trips Language courses in all major South European languages are available with each mobility partner over the two years of the programme.

Please visit our webpage for details of the courses we offer throughout the programme.

'I chose this programme because it allows students to study in three different European countries with an emphasis not only in theory but also in practice. Coming from a country that is in the early stages of development, I was interested to learn how Southern European countries have developed and democratised. I hope to apply what I learn to help my home country.'

Arailym Raikhanova, Kazakhstan